When it's time to work, Daddy gets ready,
With hugs goodbye, for his family and teddy.

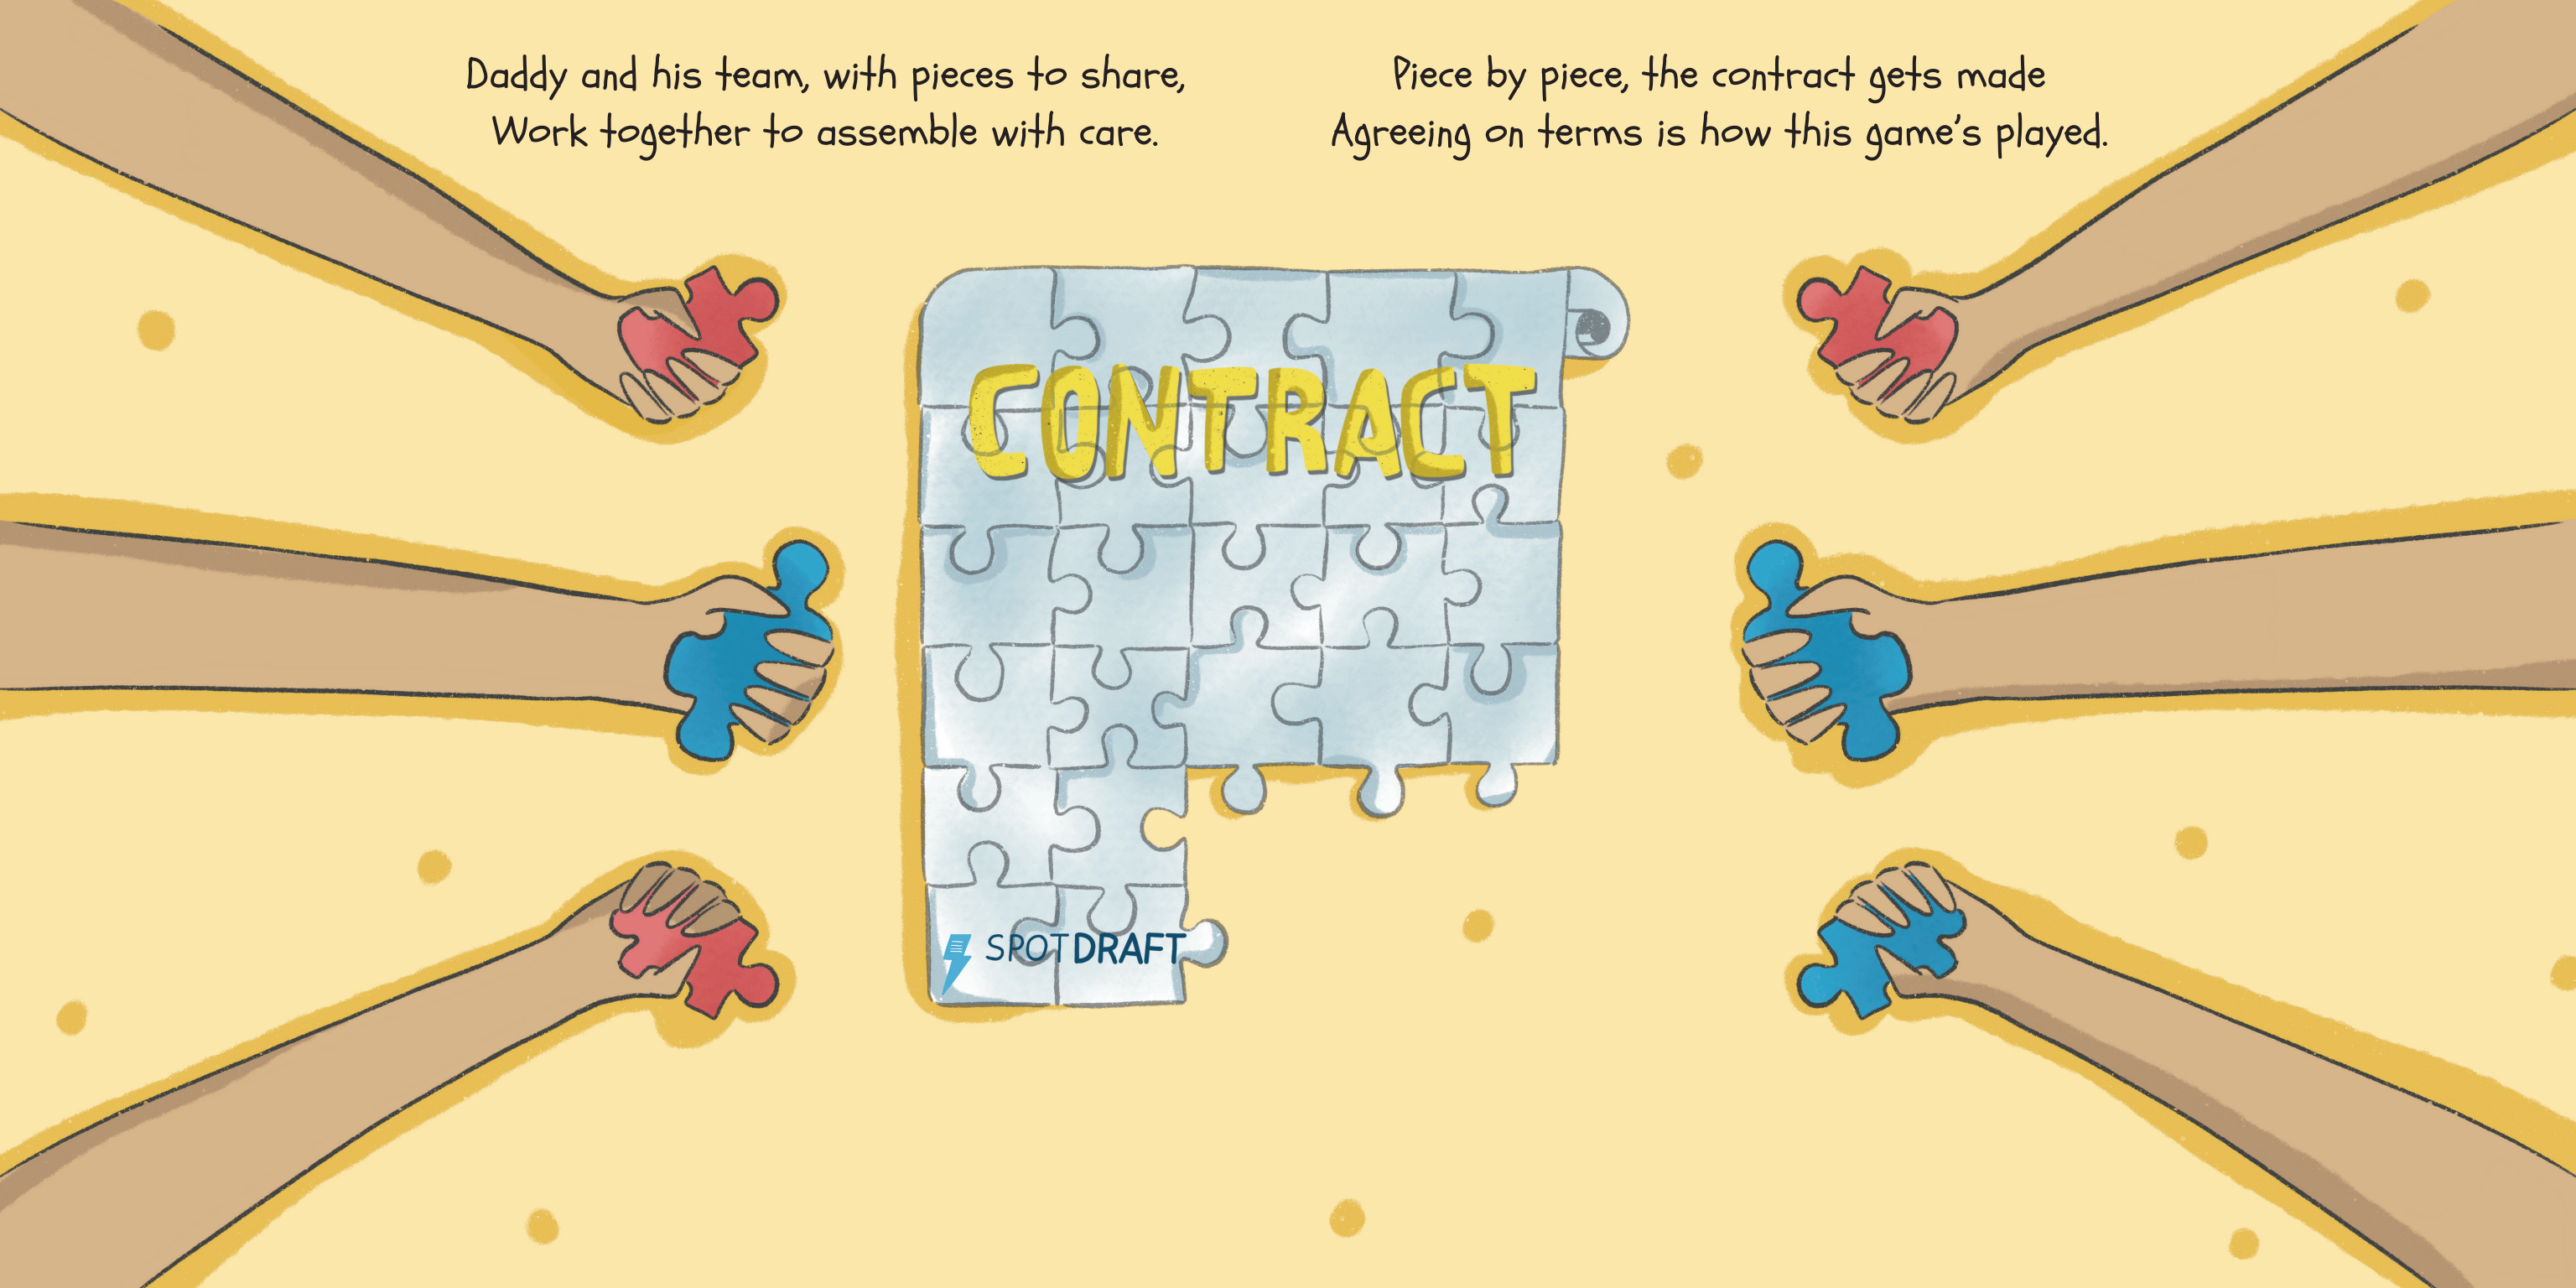

Out he heads, to work with his team,
To start his day, and make real his dream.

Daddy and his team, with pieces to share,
Work together to assemble with care.

Piece by piece, the contract gets made
Agreeing on terms is how this game's played.

'Follow the rules,' Daddy always says,
Tapping keys through the policy maze.

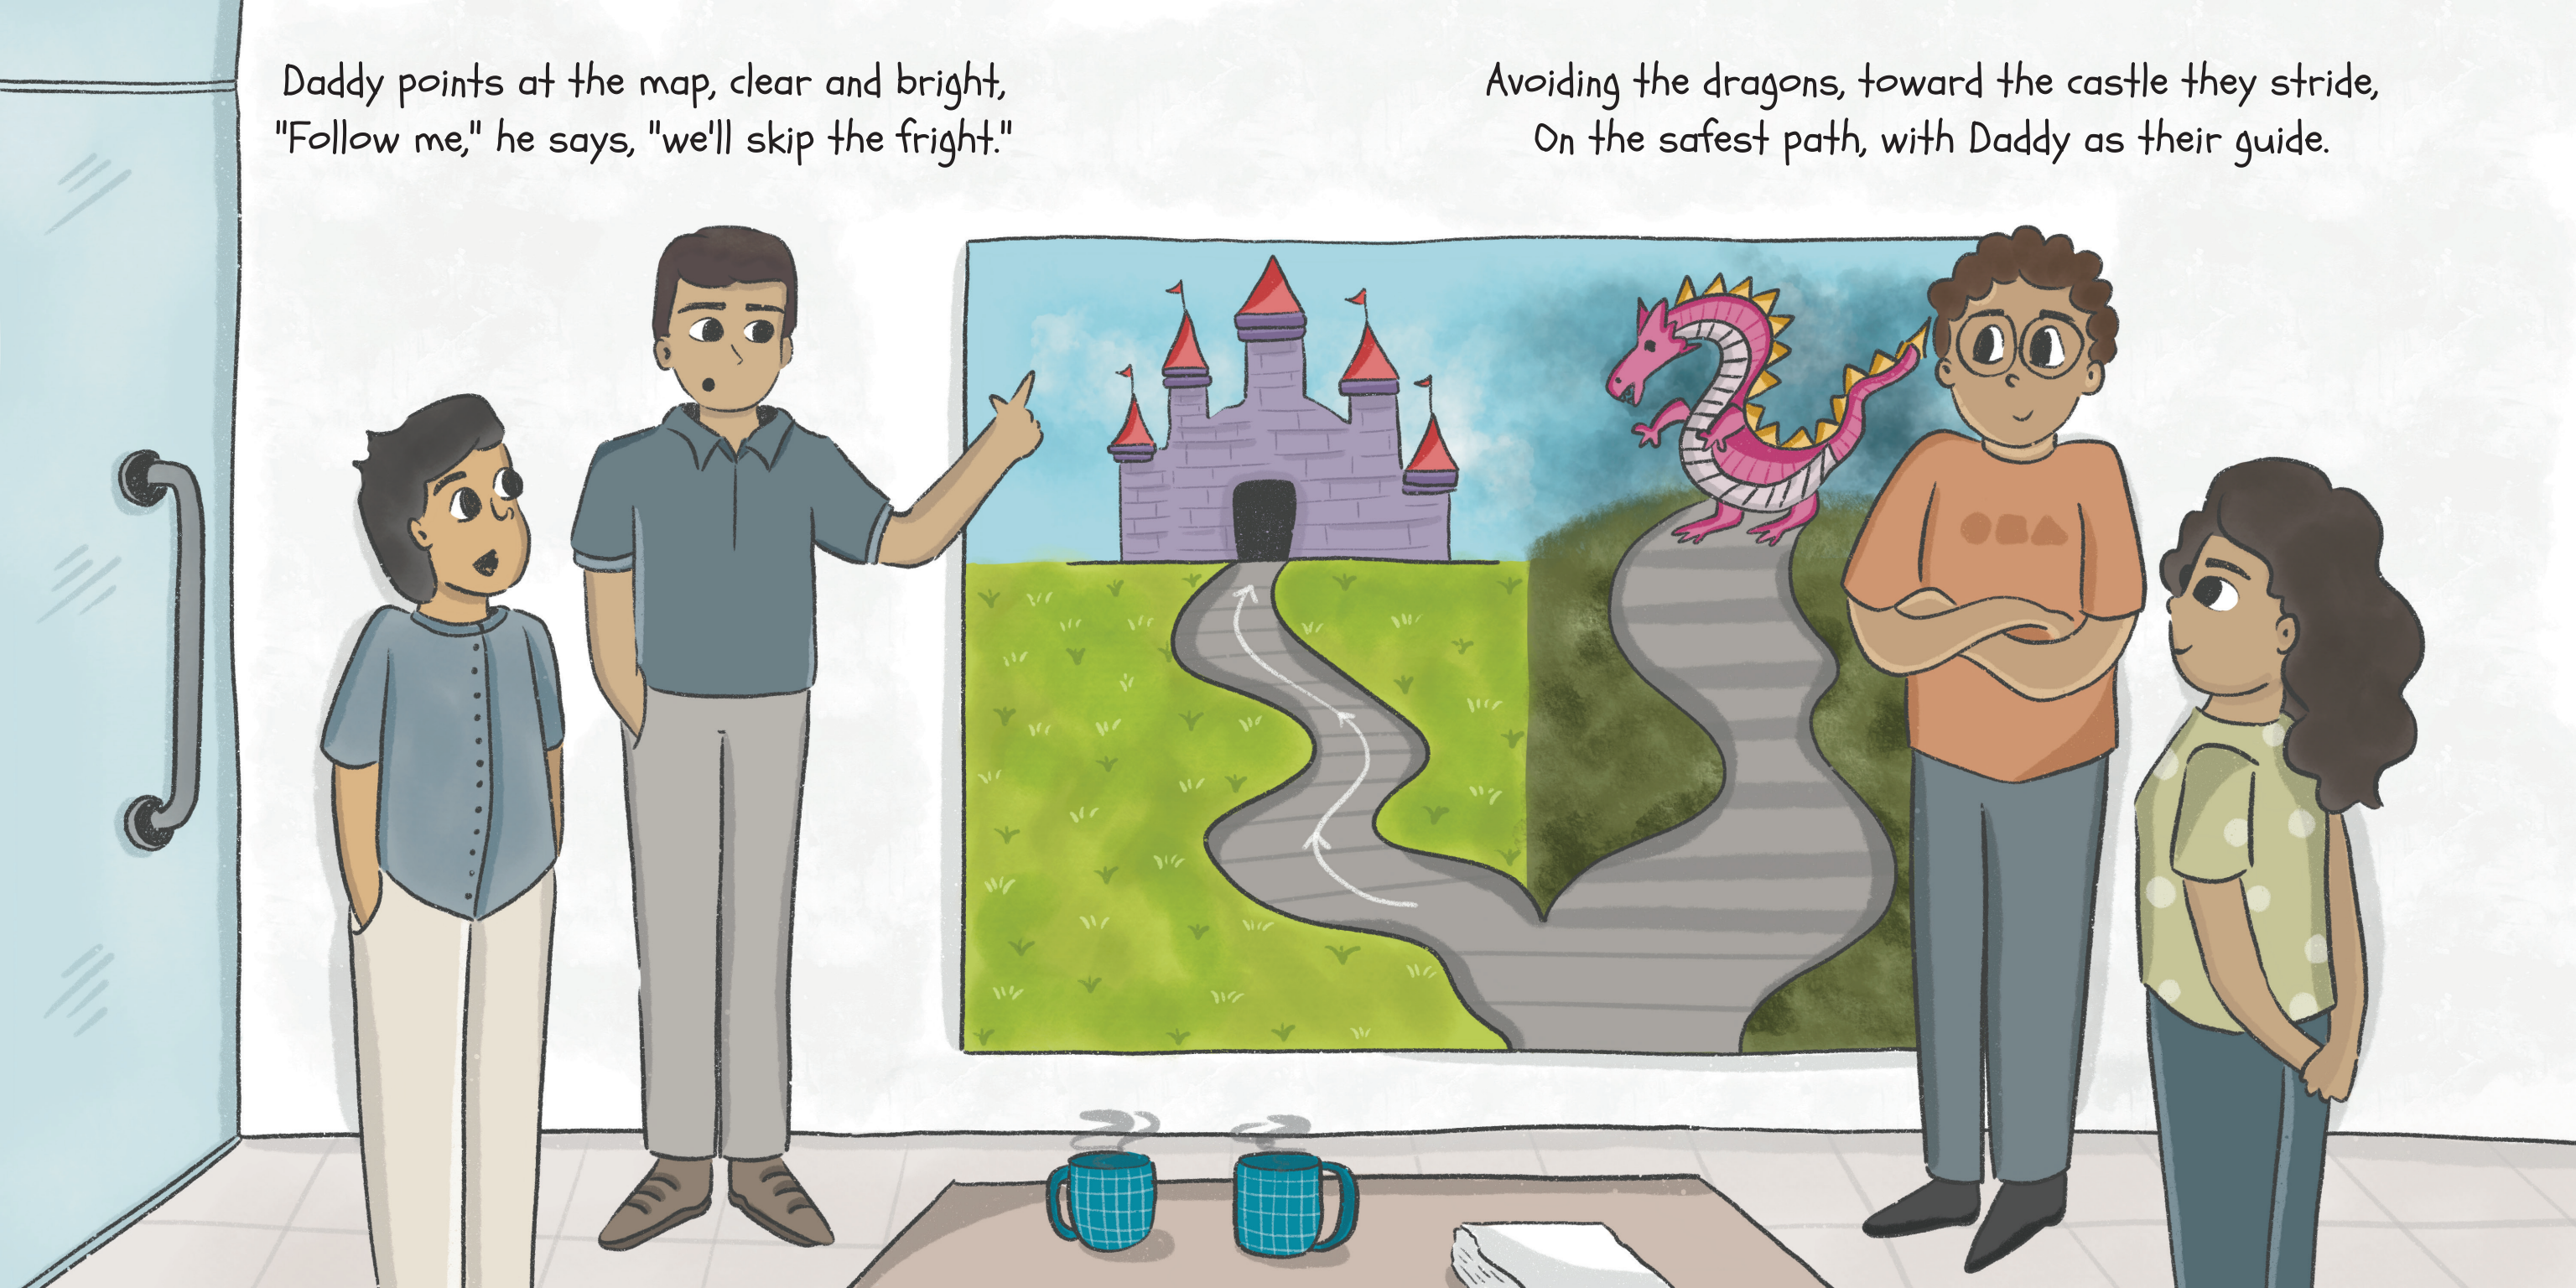

With each rule precise, his wisdom shines through,
Creating rules fair, for the entire crew.

Daddy points at the map, clear and bright,
"Follow me," he says, "we'll skip the fright."

Avoiding the dragons, toward the castle they stride,
On the safest path, with Daddy as their guide.

Daddy holds the ladder, nice and steady,
His friends climb up. Now they're ready.

To reach for their goals with no stress.
Laughing along, they climb to success!

Important contracts, hidden away,
Daddy says "We must find them today."

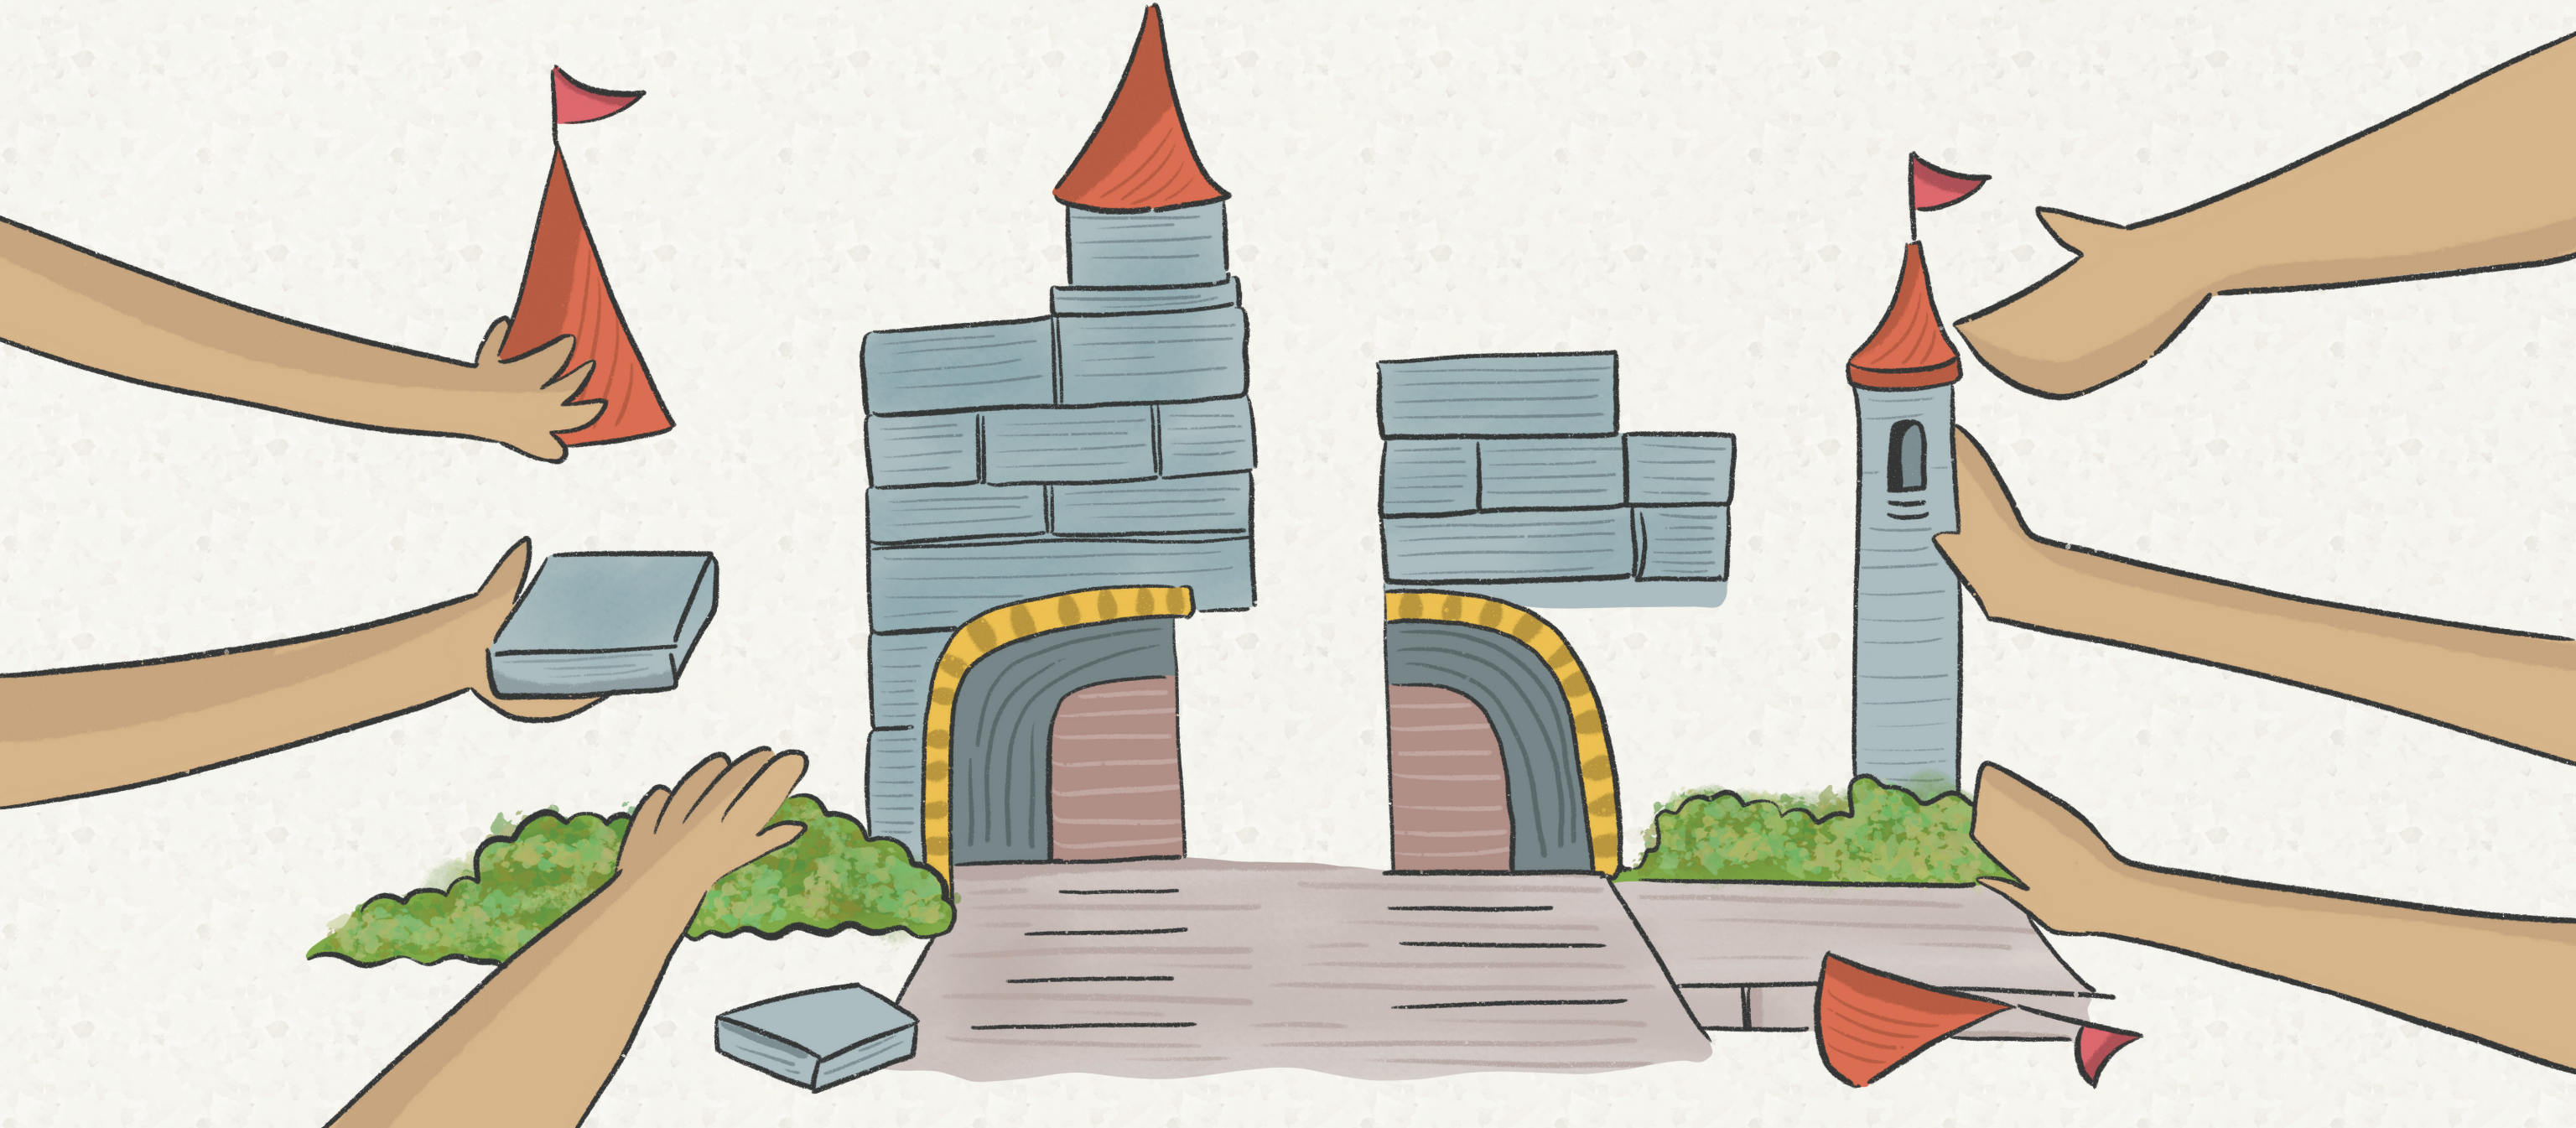

With a keen eye, they search with care,
In folders, in drawers, looking everywhere.

With the contract high, they stand proud with success,
Daddy and team, having dug through the mess.

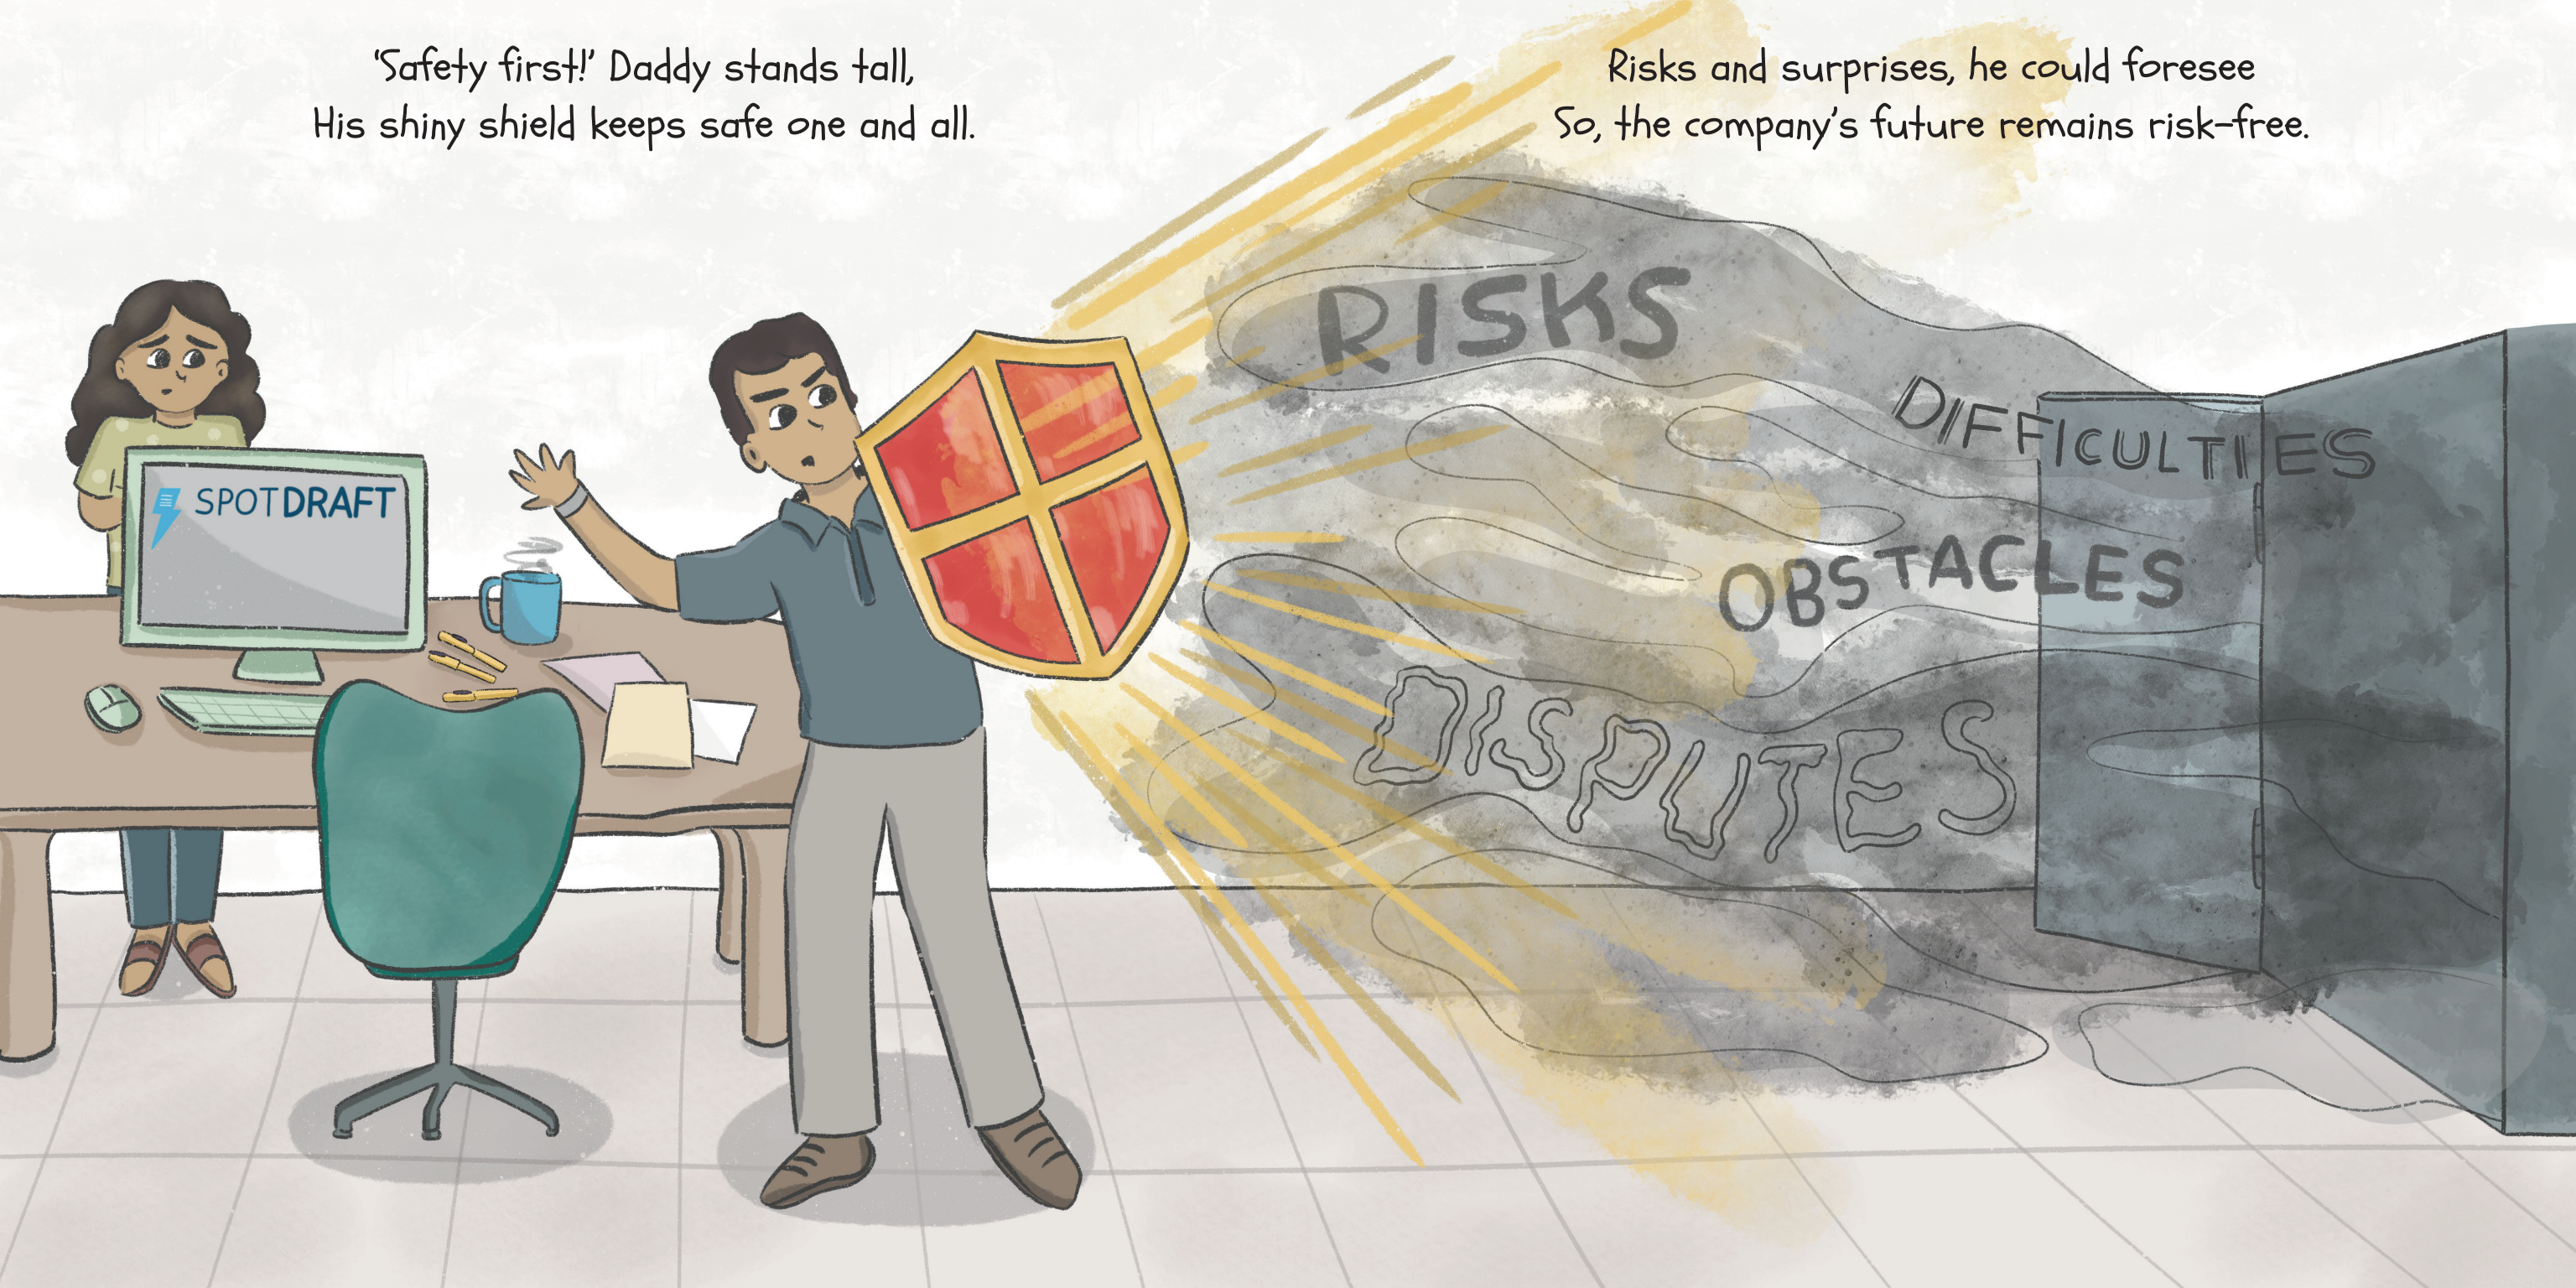

The old filing system gave him a headache,
Searching with new tools is a piece of cake.

'Safety first!' Daddy stands tall,
His shiny shield keeps safe one and all.

Risks and surprises, he could foresee
So, the company's future remains risk-free.

It's time to put everything in its place,
Daddy's team organizes with haste.

Contracts and papers, easy to find,
Now, he can go home to unwind.

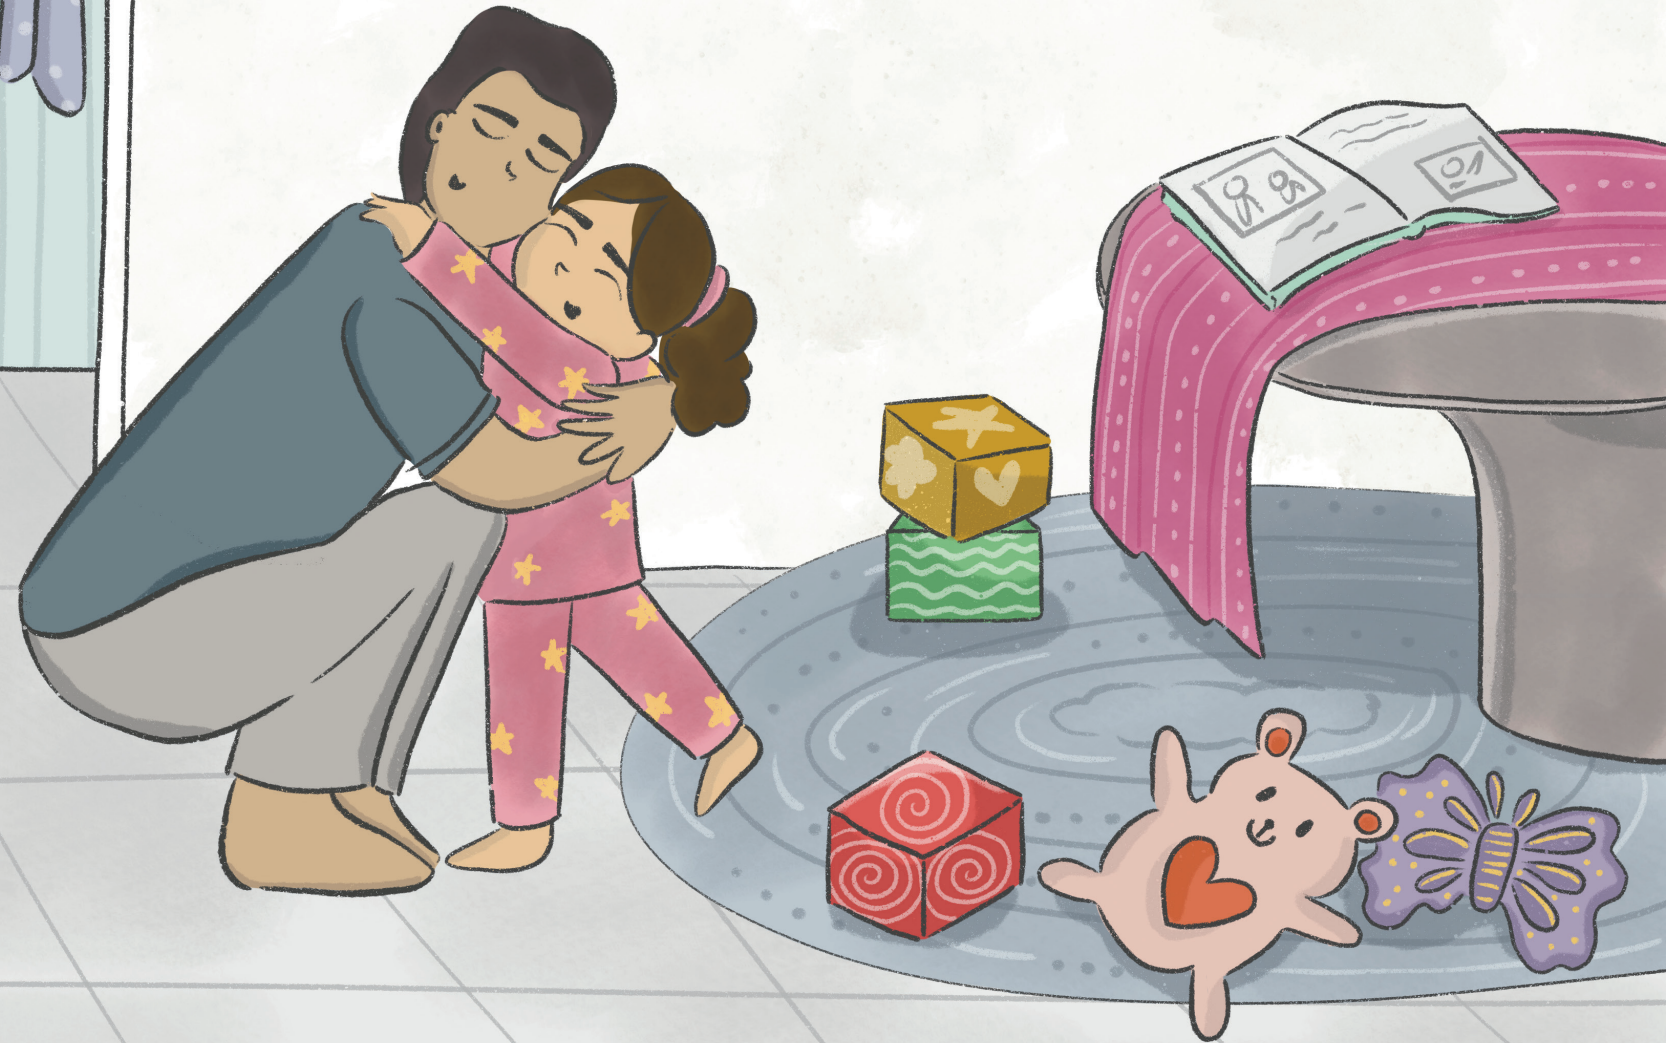

With his workday done, it's time to go back,
Taking a break from emails and Slack.

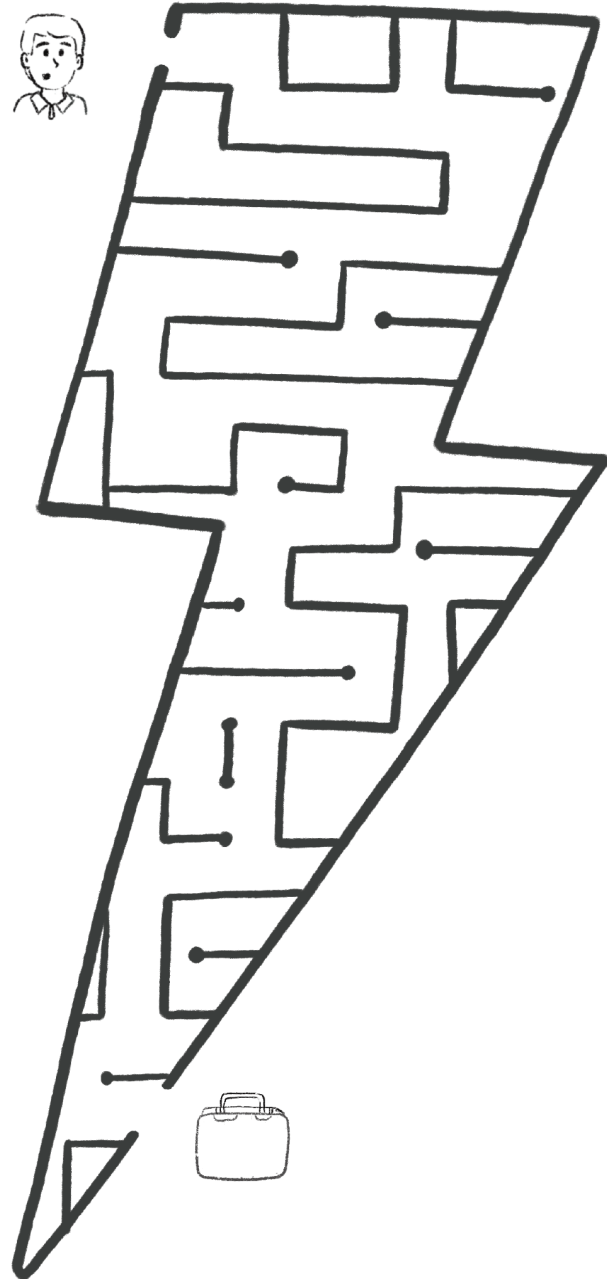

Ready for cuddles and nighttime fun,
He whispers, 'I love you, my little one.'
